UPCOMING EVENTS

STEP 9 - TRADITION 9

Step 9: "Made direct amends to such people wherever possible, except when to do so would injure them or others."

This step is where willingness turns into action. Having made our list in Step 8, we now go to the people we've harmed and set things right with direct amends. The Big Book tells us we don't want to harm another in the process, so we lean on judgment, timing, and often our sponsor's counsel before we act. Some amends are made in person, some by letter, some simply by changed behavior going forward. We're warned against using this step as an excuse to unburden ourselves at someone else's expense. Amends aren't about our relief, they're about repair. It requires courage and prudence. Done honestly, this step clears away the wreckage of the past and gives us a new freedom, restoring relationships and our own self-respect.

Tradition 9: "AA, as such, ought never be organized; but we may create service boards or committees directly responsible to those they serve."

AA has no hierarchy, no bosses, no rank. The 12 and 12 reminds us that AA is not organized in the formal sense of the word. There's no real estate, no dues, no governing authority over any group conscience. Yet some structure is needed to keep things running: committees, service boards, an office to answer the phone. The key word is responsible. These bodies serve, they don't rule. They answer directly to the groups, not the other way around. This keeps AA a fellowship of equals rather than an institution, trusting that each group has but one primary purpose, and that as little organization as possible is exactly enough to carry the message without ever risking the concentration of power in a few hands.
